

*Head of EMEA Convertible Origination
Barclays Capital*

Steven Halperin

Steven R. Halperin is a Managing Director and responsible for the EMEA Convertible Origination group within Global Finance and Risk Solutions at Barclays Capital in London. Prior to relocating to London in 2011, Steven was a Managing Director in the Equity-linked and Hybrid Solutions group in New York and most recently responsible for the Hybrid Origination effort. He is currently focused on the marketing, structuring, and execution of equity-linked securities in Europe, the Middle East, and Africa.

Steven joined Barclays Capital in September 2008 from Lehman Brothers. He spent the majority of his 10-year career at Lehman Brothers focused on the origination of convertibles and equity derivatives and the recent past on hybrid securities.

Steven directly participated in the origination of more than 25 convertible offerings raising proceeds in excess of $28 bn. He also originated and executed several hybrid and equity derivative transactions.

Steven received a BSM with joint majors in finance and economics from the A.B. Freeman School of Business at Tulane University.

Steven will present The Convertible Debt Market topic